United States Congressman to visit with Evangel group on Nov. 2

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. – United States Congressman Jason Smith will visit with the Evangel University College Republicans on Sunday, Nov. 2.

Smith is one of the youngest members of Congress at 34 years old. He is a seventh-generation Missourian and a member of Grace Community Church, an Assemblies of God congregation in Salem, Mo. Smith is a champion for the rights and values of rural Missourians.

Hannah Beers, junior and College Republicans chair, interned with Congressman Smith this summer in Washington, D.C.

“On behalf of the College Republicans, we would like to extend our gratitude to Congressman Smith for visiting with us. He is an inspirational leader for young people interested in the world of politics, and an example of a Christian that has been consistent and faithful.”

Jonathan Linden, freshman College Republicans member, is excited about meeting and talking with Congressman Smith.

“Meeting with a national representative is such an amazing opportunity. It is great to know that he is interested in what we have to say,” Linden said.

The Evangel University chapter of College Republicans is located inside the department of social sciences which offers seven majors, ten minors and features specialized programs like the Washington Studies Program, internship opportunities, and study abroad.
